FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Origin Healthcare Solutions' Connecticut operating center, formerly SSIMED, offers integrated payment processing using the TransEngen™ platform

Windsor, CT- June 23, 2009 - Origin Healthcare Solutions' (OHS) Connecticut operating center, formerly SSIMED, announces a partnership with TransEngen to help providers collect patient payments more efficiently to reduce billing and collection efforts, improve cash flow and reduce bad debt. This integrated solution is available in Origin Manager, OHS's recently unveiled, practice and clinical management solution.

The system captures and stores patient bank account or credit card information securely to collect a one-time payment or for use in processing future payments. The integration eliminates the need for duplicate data entry, large bulky credit card machines and extra phone lines. Co-pays, deductibles and self-pay can be easily collected at the time of service along with partial payments and past balances.

Also available to clients is the Account on File service. Account on File provides the ability to securely store a patient's form of payment, and capture authorization to access funds for future transactions or recurring payment plans, dramatically improving patient collections.

"Integration with the TransEngen platform is a great benefit to our clients. It will save our clients money by reducing the staff time involved in processing payments and eliminate the need for costly equipment and dedicated phone lines," Said Frank Perrotta, senior VP of Origin Healthcare Solutions Connecticut operating center, formerly SSIMED.

"TransEngen is a leading provider of payment processing solutions designed specifically for healthcare providers. We are excited to be integrating with Origin's practice management solution to deliver state of the art payment processing functionality that automatically posts patient payments to the patient ledger," said Trevor Caplan, vice president of provider solutions for TransEngen.
