

TriHealix Wins 2008 Silver CQIA Innovation Prize

Norwalk, CT – November 10, 2008 - TriHealix, the integrated platform for health and financial transactions, was recently named a recipient of the Connecticut Quality Improvement Award's (CQIA's) Silver Innovation Prize for 2008 for innovating with technology to simplify the healthcare payments process.

CQIA is the nation's oldest, state-level quality award program that uses Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award criteria to evaluate applicants from various industry segments. The competition recognizes new products, services and process innovations that solve problems or leverage organizational opportunities.

This year CQIA Partnership received 65 Innovation Prize applications. TriHealix was honored for its products developed for health plans and third party administrators that reduce administration costs, streamline payments and create a better end to end experience for providers and consumers; and for its products aimed at healthcare providers that accelerate patient payments in a timely and cost effective manner to minimize collections and increase cash flow.

Trevor Caplan, Vice President of Sales for TriHealix was on hand to accept the award at the 21st Annual CQIA Conference on Quality and Innovation on November 7, 2008, at Water's Edge Resort in Westbrook, CT. "We are thankful to CQIA Partnership for honoring TriHealix with this prestigious award," said Trevor Caplan. "TriHealix recognizes the need for improvements within the healthcare payments cycle. To address this, TriHealix has designed an integrated platform capable of processing both healthcare and financial transactions to minimize redundancy, create administrative efficiencies and facilitate timely collection of payer and patient payments."

TriHealix continues to develop innovative, leading edge solutions that build connectivity between multiple, disparate operating systems in use today to process health and financial transactions. Bridging the gaps that exist within the healthcare payments lifecycle creates new cost and administrative savings and valuable new functionality at nearly every transaction stage.

About TriHealix

TriHealix provides an integrated healthcare and financial transaction platform designed to administer complex health insurance products and streamline the settlement process between payors and providers. The TriHealix Multi-Authorization Processing platform enables simultaneous, electronic communication and data sharing by all parties to a healthcare transaction – from point of care, to insurance companies, to consumer financial institutions, and back. To connect providers to its platform, TriHealix offers a Web-based portal that integrates payment card acceptance with eligibility verification, as well as other services designed to help providers with revenue cycle management. Founded in 2006, TriHealix is based in Norwalk, CT. More information can be found at www.trihealix.com.
